Hello All,

On July 23, Administrator Bridenstine announced Inclusion as NASA's new fifth value, stating, "NASA is committed to a culture of diversity, inclusion, and equity, where all employees feel welcome, respected, and engaged."

In the spirit of this new value of Inclusion, NASA's Office of Diversity and Equal Opportunity (ODEO) and Office of the Chief Human Capital Officer (OCHCO) are thrilled to invite all employees to hear Ibram X. Kendi's presentation on Cultivating an Antiracist Workplace.

Professor Kendi is a #1 New York Times bestselling author and a professor of history. He is the Director of Boston University's Center for Antiracist Research, which fosters exhaustive racial research, research-based policy innovation, data-driven educational and advocacy campaigns, and narrative-change initiatives. Professor Kendi is a columnist at The Atlantic and a correspondent with CBS News and has written five books, including How to Be an Antiracist and Stamped from the Beginning: The Definitive History of Racist Ideas in America, which won the National Book Award for Nonfiction.

Although we're working from home, we don't have to watch the event alone! Join our NASA colleagues to watch the event live and share enthusiasms and observations in this Teams meeting chat. All employees are invited to view this online presentation via the NASA Ustream platform and participate in the Teams watch party. Immediately following is the center leaders roundtable where they will discuss takeaways and share center efforts for instilling the new Inclusion value.

Visit the event webpage for details and join the event Teams group to add the event to your calendar and interact with others across NASA! The Ustream link and password will be posted on the webpage the day of the event, August 12. Recording or taping of any kind is prohibited.

Visit the event webpage to learn more and submit questions for Professor Kendi.
